

Keeping Warm this winter

August 2010

Controlling your heating system

- If you have a single thermostat the dial will normally be located in your hallway. The temperature in this room will control heating to the rest of your home.
- Try to keep a temperature of 21 degrees Celsius (70 degrees Fahrenheit) in the main rooms you use during the day, particularly if you are an older person, have young children or suffer ill health.
- Bedrooms should be heated to 18 degrees Celsius (64 degrees Fahrenheit) to avoid condensation and mould growth.
- In very cold weather try to keep your heating on all the time on a low setting. If this is difficult for you to afford, set the timer on your heating to come on half an hour before you get up and switch off half an hour before you go to bed. In very cold weather set the heating to come on earlier.

Practical steps

- Shut outside doors and close curtains at night.
- Wrap up warmly inside and out, ideally with several layers of thin clothing to trap the heat.
- Food is a vital source of warmth so try to have regular hot meals and drinks through the day. If you are boiling the kettle do not overfill it.
- Moving around is good for your health and generates extra body heat so any exercise or activity will help keep you warm. If possible move around at least once an hour.
- Use an electric blanket or hot water bottle (but not both together as you could electrocute yourself) to warm the bed before you get in but do not leave electric blankets on over night.

Keeping well

- Get a flu jab. This is available free from your doctor if you are 65 or over, or if you have a serious respiratory condition, heart, kidney or liver disease, diabetes or lowered immunity, or if you have had a stroke.
- Stop smoking - this will boost your health for winter, improve your body's circulation and reduce your chances of a heart attack.

Financial help and advice

New Tenants

- When you first move in a gas engineer visits to start your central heating system. You will be shown how to operate your system.
- Do not use calor gas or paraffin heaters. This is against your tenancy conditions and can cause damp and condensation.
- Be aware of carbon monoxide poisoning and protect yourself against it. Do not block up ventilation, get appliances checked regularly and get a carbon monoxide detector. Visit <http://www.carbonmonoxidekills.org.uk/> for more information
- All London residents can get a free fire safety check from the London Fire Brigade to register visit: www.london-fire.gov.uk/HomeFireSafetyVisit.asp
- Make sure that your gas central heating is checked annually by HFI - our contractor will contact you when it is due.
- If you are a new tenant and have chosen to stay with Scottish and Southern Energy and you are spending 10% or more of your income on your fuel bills, you might qualify for their energypus care scheme and could get up to 20% discount on your fuel costs and other benefits. Call 0800 300 111.

Don't forget elderly relatives or neighbours. Check that they are safe and well, especially in the winter months.
